

Admission to the Institut für Raumexperimente
Professorship of Olafur Eliasson

The Institut für Raumexperimente, an educational research project by Olafur Eliasson in collaboration with the Berlin University of the Arts (UdK). The pedagogical approach of Olafur Eliasson's Institut für Raumexperimente includes both artistic as well as applied and theoretical dimensions, thus comprising several levels of teaching. At its core are the experimental spatial practices in the fine arts and their interconnectedness with the humanities and the natural sciences. On the artistic level, the goal is to work out space-based experimental techniques for the exploration and shaping of reality.

The students will be supervised by Olafur Eliasson as well as by visiting lecturers and staff of the Institute and of Studio Olafur Eliasson. Another component of the training programme will be public events presenting the students' projects, as well as exhibitions organised by the students together with the guest lecturers. Applicants must be proficient in English, which will be the primary language of teaching.
